Dedication

This book is dedicated to my good friend SAS Flight Captain Thomas A Einertsen.
It was his concern for the less fortunate of this world which started this process. Without his enthusiasm and empathy, none of the books on “Health disaster management: Guidelines for evaluation and research in the Utstein style” would have happened. As such, this conceptualised tool to help us learn from disasters in a reproducible way, and do better the next time, is the final proof that his initiative to work for the betterment of the less fortunate has been fruitful.
