Footnotes

1. First reference to books. Always give the complete name, title, place, date and page number cited. Later references should be shortened.

Example (first reference): H. Abramson, A Prayer for the Government. Ukrainians and Jews in Revolutionary Times, 1917-1920, Cambridge, MA 1956, 96-97.

Example (second reference): Abramson, Prayer, 96-97.

“Idem” and “Ibid.” may be used, do not use “op. cit.”.

Several places: Leningrad, Moscow 1999. More than two: Leningrad et al.

2. Archival materials. In reference to archives, write out the full name of the archive in the language of the country in which it is located at the first reference and thereafter cite it by the standard acronym.

3. Journal article citation. Cite volume, year, and the complete article pages first, then page number of quote.

Example (first reference) : K. J. Müller, “French Fascism and Modernization”, in: Journal of Contemporary History 11 (1976) 2, 75-107, 96.

Example (second reference): Müller, “French Fascism”, 96.

4. Edited volumes.

a) If a collection of essays is cited without reference to a particular item therein, then the proper order of citation should be ed(s)., [Title].

Example: R. Taylor / D. Spring (eds.), Stalinism and Soviet Cinema, London 1993.

b) If an article in a collection is cited, then the order should be:

M. Enzensberger, “We were Born to Turn a Fairy Tale into Reality: Grigori Alexandrov’s The Radiant Path”, in: R. Taylor / D. Spring (eds.), Stalinism and Soviet Cinema, London 1993, 97-108.
