Situation Update: But Not Serious

Taking the cases: Voter turnout has never looked more important and is likely to lead to a new organisation setting out to encourage this. But they fear many obstacles

Unhealthy market: As coronavirus affects China's economy, will a weaker market mean companies have more to stand up for freedom of expression?

Widely watched: Chinese people are installing their own video cameras as they believe losing privacy is a price they are willing to pay for enhanced safety.

Nuhorse left to hole? Privacy has been eroded in Turkey for many years now. People fear that taste of Covid-19 might take away their last private place.

Virus masks a different threat: China is using Covid-19 responses and Hong Kong's new security law to reduce freedoms in the city state

Generation app: How do different generations feel about sharing personal data in order to tackle Covid-19? We ask people in South Korea, Spain and Italy

Extremes see virus to curb opposition: Covid-19 is being used by religious militias as a recruitment tool in Yemen and Iraq. Speaking out is a major civic duty in both challenging

Life in action: The Lebanese director talks to Index about how police brutality has increased in his country and how that informed the story of his new play, published here for the first time

Putting abuse on the map: The coronavirus crisis has seen a huge rise in media attacks. Index has launched a map to track these

Back-up plan: Don’t blindly give away more freedoms than you sign up for in the name of tackling the virus. They’re hard to reclaim

The ways of the storm: Spas are on the streets of Uganda making sure everyone abides by Covid-19 rules. They’re prevailing on opposition foes. A dispatch from Kampala

Saving what’s around the corner: Facial recognition technology may be used to create identity ‘passports’ and other ways of tracking our health status. Are we watching?
