CALL FOR PAPERS: Currents in Biblical Research

The Editors of Currents in Biblical Research welcome proposals for articles whose subject matter falls within the aims and scope of the journal.

Currents in Biblical Research is a peer-reviewed journal which summarizes the spectrum of recent research on particular topics or biblical books. Each article provides an inclusive treatment of its subject, without in most cases being exhaustive. Articles cover specific biblical books or clusters of books, ancillary ancient literature, archaeology, historical studies, as well as new and developing areas of study. Each article concludes with an extensive bibliography that provides a basic knowledge of significant articles and books on the topic being treated, and provides sufficient information to launch a thorough investigation of the topic.

Currents in Biblical Research is indispensable not only for those entering upon a career in biblical studies, but also for all scholars who wish to keep abreast of developments in fields adjacent to their own.

Proposals for Currents in Biblical Research articles should be in the first instance discussed with the relevant subject editor:

Brad Kelle
Editor for Old Testament
BradKelle@pointloma.edu

Drew Strait
Editor for New Testament
drew.strait@gmail.com

Jordan Rosenblum
Editor for Ancient Judaism
jrosenblum@wisc.edu

To find out more about the journal, please visit http://journals.sagepub.com/home/CBI