

Call for Editor for Communication & Sport

SAGE announces the search for (a) new Editor(s) for our journal, Communication & Sport. This peer-reviewed publication has established a record of publishing high-impact content and has promoted the growth of communication and sport studies since its establishment in 2013. We are currently accepting editor applications for a three-year term effective January 1, 2022. Training and shadowing will begin Fall/Winter 2021. Once identified, the Editor(s)-elect will begin training with Sage and editorial staff.

Communication & Sport (C&S), examines both communication in sport and the communication of sport by considering sport in light of communication processes, industries, texts, and reception. With six issues annually, C&S welcomes studies of sport and media in mass and new media settings; research on sport in interpersonal, group, organizational, and other communication contexts; and analyses of sport rhetoric, discourse, and narratives. C&S encourages studies of sport communication and media from broad disciplinary vistas including sport studies/sociology, management, marketing, politics, economics, philosophy, history, education, kinesiology, health, as well as cultural, policy, urban, gender, sexuality, race, and ability studies. C&S is theoretically diverse, and qualitative, quantitative, critical, historical, and other methods are equally welcome.

The Editor(s) will be responsible for soliciting, reviewing, and making final decisions on submissions to the journal, and will manage all aspects of the publication and review process using the Manuscript Central electronic submission and review platform. The Editor(s) will work with the Editorial Board and are expected to maintain timely and effective communication, advance journal performance, and uphold C&S high quality standards.

Applicants must have a distinguished scholarly record in the field of sport communication. Furthermore, the record of scholarship should demonstrate an understanding of global, diverse, and inclusive issues pertaining to sport communication. Exhibited prior leadership through service to the academy within the sport communication field is highly recommended. The applicant(s) must demonstrate strong communication, organizational, and management skills. Editor(s) must be able to articulate journal's current mission and their vision for the journal moving forward.

SAGE provides Communication & Sport with editorial support. However, the Editor(s) should also have access to resources that would assist them in the level of work required, and should indicate in their application their expected level of institutional support. Examples of support could come in the form of additional faculty release time, travel funds, summer salary, office space, utilities, the use of computers and other office equipment, support for student workers, and/or other basic expenses.

Applicants should send a letter of application, which includes their vision for the future of the journal, and a description of their qualifications for the editorship no later than June 14, 2021. Applicants should also include a copy of their CV and documentation indicating institutional support. Joint, Co-Editor applications are welcomed.

Applications, nominations, and requests for additional information should be sent electronically to Martha Avtandilian, Publishing Editor, at martha.avtandilian@sagepub.com. Please put "C&S Editor Application" in the subject line of your email.