Announcement of Search Process:
Editor-in-Chief of Environment and Behavior

SAGE announces the search for a new Editor-in-Chief of our journal, Environment and Behavior. This peer-reviewed, 10 issues/year publication has been servicing the field of environment and behavior studies and environmental psychology in pursuit of high impact content since its establishment in 1969. We are currently accepting Editor-in-Chief applications for a three-year term commencing January 1st, 2019.

Environment and Behavior brings readers international and interdisciplinary perspectives on the relationships between environments and human behavior at the individual, group, and institutional levels. Both population growth and threats to environmental sustainability make the understanding of environment-behavior relationships increasingly critical to human well-being.

The Editor-in-Chief will be responsible for soliciting, reviewing, and making final decisions on submissions to the journal, and will manage all aspects of the publication and review process using the Manuscript Central electronic submission and review platform. The Editor-in-Chief is expected to maintain timely and effective communication, advance journal performance, and work toward upholding Environment and Behavior’s high quality standard. The Editor-in-chief is currently assisted by three Senior Associate Editors who help process manuscripts, including selecting reviewers and preparing preliminary assessments when reviews are submitted.

Applicants should have a distinguished scholarly record in environment–behavior studies or environmental psychology and experience in academic leadership roles. Applicants should also possess strong organizational and management skills, the ability to work well with others, and a commitment to SAGE’s mission: believing passionately that engaged scholarship lies at the heart of any healthy society and that education is intrinsically valuable. This means playing a creative role in society by disseminating teaching and research on a global scale, the cornerstones of which are good, long-term relationships, a focus on our markets, and an ability to combine quality and innovation.

SAGE provides Environment and Behavior with editorial support, but the institution that hosts the journal will also be expected to provide support for the editor and the journal office. Your application should indicate the expected level of institutional support, which might come in the form of additional faculty release time, travel funds, summer salary, office space, utilities, the use of computers and other office equipment, student workers, and/or other basic expenses.

Applicants should send a letter of application that includes their vision for the future of the journal and a description of their qualifications for the editorship. Applicants should also include copies of their CV and documentation indicating prospective institutional support.

Applications, nominations, and requests for additional information should be sent electronically to Ann Sloan Devlin, Editor, at asdev@conncoll.edu and Danielle Bath, Publishing Editor, at Danielle.Bath@sagepub.com. Please put “EAB Editor-in-Chief Application” in the subject line of your email.