

Call for Proposals: New Editor International Journal of Police Science & Management

SAGE announces the search for a new Editor of our journal International Journal of Police Science & Management established in 1998. The principal objective of the journal is to facilitate international exchange, stimulate debate and to encourage closer bonds between academic research into the criminal justice system and the practicalities of its day-to-day management of criminal justice organisations including, but not necessarily confined to, the police. The journal is published four times a year in print and online at <https://journals.sagepub.com/home/psm>

After four years of leadership, the current Editor Michael Rowe is stepping down from the journal and SAGE is therefore seeking to appoint a new Editor to assume responsibility for the journal from 2023. Applications are due Tuesday, August 23, 2022.

We especially encourage applications from historically marginalized and underrepresented groups in the field of criminal justice research, such as applicants based in the Global South, applicants who self-identify as Black, Indigenous, and other People of Colour, and neurodivergent scholars.

An editorial remuneration is offered.

General responsibilities of the Editor include:

- Overseeing the peer review of scholarly submissions via the ScholarOne manuscript submission system – including:
- Overseeing and/or guest editing special issues with invited Guest Editors
- Being the focus of editorial activity in their specialty, working to enhance the journal's visibility and reputation
- Actively recruiting authors to contribute to the journal
- Assisting in the framing of journal editorial policy
- Assisting in the appointment of other editorial team members, including ensuring members reflect the diversity of the field and key viewpoints within the community
- Attending a virtual Editorial Board Meeting – usually once a year and providing a brief update on progress/activity where necessary
- Representing the Journal and promoting it, when possible, with the support of SAGE

Those interested in making an application should send a brief CV and cover email. Please outline any experience that you have which supports your application.

All enquiries and expressions of interest should be directed via email in the first instance to:
