SAGE announces the search for a new Editor of our journal, Youth & Society. This peer-reviewed, bi-monthly publication has been servicing the field of communication in pursuit of high impact content since its establishment in 1969. We are currently accepting editor applications for a three-year term commencing January 1, 2026.

Youth & Society has provided researchers and practitioners with the most up-to-date, comprehensive and important research on issues related to the 10–24-year-old population. It publishes articles that explore the social, contextual, and political factors that influence healthy and harmful adolescent development. Topics are open to a range of both quantitative and qualitative methodologies. Editor will be expected to work with SAGE to ensure high quality peer review and timely and accurate delivery of manuscripts for publication.

The Editor will be responsible for soliciting, reviewing, and making final decisions on submissions to the journal, and will manage all aspects of the publication and review process using the Manuscript Central electronic submission and review platform. Editor is expected to maintain timely and effective communication, advance journal performance, and work towards upholding Youth & Society's high-quality standard.

Applicants should have a distinguished scholarly record in the communications field and experience in academic leadership roles. Applicants should also possess strong organizational and management skills, the ability to work well with others, and a commitment to SAGE's mission: believing passionately that engaged scholarship lies at the heart of any healthy society and the education is intrinsically valuable. This means playing a creative role in society by disseminating teaching and research on a global scale, the cornerstones of which are good, long-term relationships, a focus on our markets, and an ability to combine quality and innovation.

SAGE provides Youth & Society with editorial support, but the institution that hosts the journal will also be expected to provide support for the editor and the journal office. Your application should indicate the expected level of institutional support, which might come in the form of additional faculty release time, travel funds, summer salary, office space, utilities, the use of computers and other office equipment, support for a full time Managing Editor, student workers, and/or other basic expenses.

Applicants should send a letter of application which includes their vision for the future of the journal and a description of their qualifications for the editorship. Applicants should also include copies of their CV and documentation indicating prospective institutional support. This position includes an annual stipend, broken down into semiannual payments.

Applications, nominations, and requests for additional information should be sent electronically to Shannon Carney, Publishing Editor, at shannon.carney@sagepub.com. Please put "Y&S Editor Application" in the subject line of your email.
